

The Czech Republic is set to receive its first dedicated AI factory, complete with a high-performance supercomputer. The project aims to support research, industry, and start-ups in the use ...

The project, led by VSB - Technical University of Ostrava, brings together a consortium of six leading Czech institutions and will include a new high-performance AI supercomputer named ...

Seventy-six projects from 60 locations in 16 countries responded to the call, with only 23 applications receiving official state support. The quality of the proposals varies, ranging from visions to detailed ...

The initiative will include the acquisition of a powerful new AI supercomputer and the launch of a comprehensive portfolio of AI services provided by the consortium's experts. Both will ...

Under the Czech AI Factory (CZAI) initiative, the country will acquire a high-performance AI supercomputer and launch a package of services provided by consortium experts.

The project, led by the Technical University of Ostrava, will cost about CZK one billion and was selected in a European call to create AI factories under the EuroHPC Joint Undertaking.

The KarolAIIna supercomputer will become the flagship of the Czech Republic's AI infrastructure, enabling us to meet the rapidly growing demand for AI computing.

CZAI is designed to serve all Czech and European AI industrial, academic, and public institutions. The Czech AI Factory (CZAI) will support the development and adoption of AI in Czechia.

Under the Czech AI Factory (CZAI) initiative, the country will acquire a high-performance AI supercomputer and launch a package of services provided ...

As part of the Czech AI Factory (CZAI), a high-performance supercomputer for AI calculations will be purchased and a package of services provided by consortium experts will be ...

Among the successful applicants is the Czech Republic, specifically a consortium of six partners including the Brno University of Technology. Over the next three years, a new supercomputer called ...

Web: <https://www.tlaetsoglobal.co.za>