

However, unlike residents of the US and Europe, many of whom are consciously sympathetic to the Palestinian side despite the Hamas terrorist attack, the Russians polled by the ...

Putin sees Israel as a key pillar of Russia's foreign policy in the Middle East, but the bilateral relationship has ruptured since October 7.

However, the outbreak of the latest war led Russia to take a clearly pro-Palestinian stance and harshly criticize Tel Aviv's military response. The analysis shows that while relations were ...

Palestinians are divided over conflict, with some supporting Russia, which has long championed their cause, against Western countries that have always backed Israel

The Russian draft resolution failed to secure a majority, and Russia did not condemn Hamas for its brutal actions against civilians. This stance contradicts Russia's claim of a balanced ...

Interest in Palestine has been uneven among citizens of Russia. But for Russia's twenty-million-plus Muslims, in the Caucasus and beyond, the plight of the Palestinians has attracted more ...

The bilateral relations between the State of Palestine and Russia (and before 1992, the Soviet Union) have a complex history, deeply interwoven with Russian and Soviet relations with the Israeli ...

A severance of CBRs would likely cause rapid disruption in key banking services and have profound negative impacts on the Palestinian real sector, especially as the Palestinian economy uses the ...

Palestinian leader Mahmoud Abbas is in Moscow for talks with ...

The bilateral relations between the State of Palestine and Russia (and before 1992, the Soviet Union) have a complex history, deeply interwoven with Russian and Soviet relations with the Israeli enterprise, Palestinian nationalism, and Third World national liberation movements. Between 1956 and 1990, Soviet-Palestinian relations were part of the then-ongoing Soviet-American confrontation.

The Israel-Hamas war has forced Russia into a delicate balancing act, with Moscow urging a quick end to the fighting without apportioning blame.

Palestinian leader Mahmoud Abbas is in Moscow for talks with Russian President Vladimir Putin. In their first face-to-face meeting since 2021, the pair are expected to discuss Israel's ...

Web: <https://www.tlaetsoglobal.co.za>